The imparilal observer must see that the whole agony of the dominant party is reduced to one idea-sptislavery. It is unimportant what eise a man holds if he is a good disciple of Lloyd Garrison, Abby Kelley or John Brown. No one is loyal who is not up to the mark lu the Abolition school. It is not much to the credit of Maryland that she sdhered to the Union. The great matter for exultation amongst the faithful is that she has sholished slavery. It is not a matter of the alightest moment what measures of despotism were nsed to get no a convention, so that the convention abeliahed slavery. So with Missouri. She has no merit as a loyal State; but she has got up a convention-sn antislaver convention. She has joined the Abolition earty, and that is the great matter to be hersided to the world.

Tennessee has got up an affair called a con rention, composed of a few men representing not men enough to get up a large town meet ing, and they rival all the Abolitionists in their antislavery resolves.

The Union of the States in peace is a small about negross. This State deliberately reand threw all her efforts against it. She never mivistration. failed in the darkest honr to stand by the received acthing but carses for her devotion to the Union. She would not bow to party, her life. Sie is not loys', for one only ressor she is not Abolition.

Not very long ago we ware told that this by both extremes as Union-savers.

Darty.

The o la a determination to discard the conditions upon which the Union was founded, and adopt the new doctrine that free and slave States cannot live together. The States must right and patriotic.

These men call themselves the Union party. and set up their dogmas as a test of loyalty. Ail principles of government are set at nanght, and all means are justifiable to reach the object of nniformity in the lastitutions of States. State rights, so highly valued by the generation of 1776, and by the generations of statesmen that fellowed, are scoffed at as pestilent

How far mere force may avail in subjugating the minds of men and forcing consent over the population of half a continent, remains to be seen.

We have no faith at ail in the experiment We don't know of any divine right of a party to force upon any community any political cr domestic institutions, or to compel the abandonment of any such institutions. There is no right in it except might. Instead of this zeal for party ideas, which is only the promptings of party ambition, we ask that rational means to restore this Union be adopted. This Union was made by conference and concession, not by a defiance of the sentiments to a party demand in addition. Free and slave labor countles, the farms, alays States cannot live in the same government together. You must, likewise give up slavery. No acceptance of the Union, no devotion to it. will do, unless you concede this party demand. Of course, there is an end of egotiation, and the war must go on. The rebellion is nearly broken down, it is said, and an unconditional surrender will answer the purpose; but when may we look for that unconditional surrender? The dominant party assure us it is near at hand, and if the success of the military could affect it, it is possible; but who can predict what is to be the future of such a contest-what will yet turn up to ars occupied with their sole idea-the negrodistracted country.

sil the departments. Economy must be given out to the whole public service as the order of the day. We trust that the displacement of Senator Hale as Chairman of the Naval Committee of the Sanate means no shirking of his visitant investigations and criticommittee of the assaud means no solit-ling of his vigilant investigations and criti-cisms of the Navy Department. They ought to be continued with the ulmost rigor, Equally so with the War Department and all others. We hope that our Government char-lites will be strictly examined, and, if not ab-solutely necessary, unsparingly cut off. The people must insign through their representatives on the most exact ecosomy and every possible retreachment.

Let us have from one end of the service to the cities nave from one end of the service to the other a strict regime of economy, and we may be able to westuer this financial storm. There is no doubt in any foreceeing mind of the fall of the Confederacy; but the problem for Congress is to prevent its dragging with it our own bankruptcy. No advice was ever more appropriately given. Without entering into the discussion of the honesty of an Administration, one of whose friends declared more money was permitted to be stolen in the first year of its term than would have supported the Government any previous term, we will all agree with the Times that reform is necessary. We must also agree with the implication o that journal that the removal of Senator Hal from his position on the naval committee i anything but a favorable sign. No one doubts Hale's patriotism; no one doubts his integrity; and lastly, no one donbts his entire devotion to Republicaniem, even to radical Republicanism. Neither is his ability or experience as Senator called in question. These are caudid ly admitted. We must, therefore, seek for the cause of his removal eisewhere. It does not take long to find it, when it is remember ed that, as chairman of the Naval Committee his adhesion to parly has not prevented his exposure of frands in the naval department. His language and reports have precented any thing but a spectacle of either economy or honesty in the conduct of the affairs of the navy. He has been censured by those of his party who held that party allegiance should be held superior to practical honesty; and his fin at remeval on'y shows a determination not to pursue those investigations which he has so frequently and elequently neged as neces sary to the good of the country. It locks very much like the advice of the Times, so far from being received or followed, is promptly

It should be borne in mind that there hav been a number of different reports from differant officials, all condemning frauds, and all which reports have been rullified. There was Van Wych's report, the speech of Dawes. Frank Bialr's demand for an investigation of the Treasury Department, the report of Judg fiolt on the Missouri peculations, all of which have been smothered in committees or the cuiprits suffered to escape. The Times is asnatter, quite subordinate to the party agony suredly right, therefore, in unging reform and retrenchment, though we distrust any hope fused to have snything to do with secession, of their being effected under the present Adit is strange, indeed, how this party seem Government against the rebellion; but she has to fall into one common crime whether as officials or individuals. In addition to reports alladed to above, here, but the other day, we and reverse at party dictation the record of saw accounts of wholesale plundering in tha Philadelphia navy pard. Then, very recently a most extraordinary sult has just terminated In New York. MEMORIAL ADDRESSED TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, SHOWING BY STATISTICAL FACTS, THE SUPERIOR PROSPERITY AND GENERAL SOCIAL PRO-GRESS DEVELOPED BY SLAVE LABOR IN KENTUCKY AND ELSEWHERE.

[CONTINUED] We find that the seven slave-labor countles have 6,055 farms. These farms, with their improvements and implements, are worth $40, 224,429-being over $6,600 each. In the white labor counties there are 9,972 farms, which is not much more than half the number of white families, and these farms are worth $9,972,851, and prejudices of States. It is not yet or just $1,000 each. This is just $508 for each demonstrated that any other sort of Union is family in the entire population. The average a possibility. Peace commissioners are said to amount of improved land in these white-labe appointed. After they ask Davis & Co. to bor farms is from 40 to 45 acres, sud the sver give up secession from the Union, they have age amount of unimproved land to another demand to make. You must submit farm is very nearly 300 acree. In the sre worth six or seven times as much average 163 acres each of impoved land and about 50 acres of unimproved. Every practical man knows the difference between large farms well stocked and highly cultivated by labor, and very small farms with meagre improvements and an inferior supply of stock. It is no wonder that the former raise six times as much wheat and five million more bushel of corn with the same laboring force; that force is directed by superior intelligence, and aided by accumulated capital. Certainly no champion of free labor and opponent of slave labor can deny, after this exhibition, that the disappoint all calculations? Whilst this party slaveholders of Kentucky are a body of energetic and industrious meu, who know how to they neglect the golden oppo. tunity to save a work as well as to direct. If they say that slaveholders are not working men, then this immense production is due to the 49,000 ne-

169,363 white people in white-labor counties in have it vested $1,021 947 in manufacturing business, which is not quite ten dollars aplece. In the slave labor counties 62,370 whits people have it vested $1,771,506, which is over. $25 each. So slave labor counties are usarly three times as well off in the manufacturing department. They, as to actual production, it he about a manufactures are worth in the white labor counties $1,714,633, and in the elave-labor counties they are worth $3.070,500. Dividing this product among the white population (qually would give to each white family in the white population in the slave-labor counties where more then three times is much animally per family in the way of manufactures. If we entirely ignore the distinctions of color and property we find that the manufactured products in the white-labor counties would give to each human being $15 per annum, and in the slave labor counties $27.

Slave-labor counties, then, are as far shead in manufacturing comities, and productions of respectives.

tior al indelence and the lack of enterprise and ambilion, they wigetate in rust't powerty. We should seek for indelence in the white-labor counties, where 113,000 people cultivate poorly only 429 600 acres—not in the counties where the same t tal white and blick population cultivates more than thrice as much land, and in a far superior manner. In five of these white-labor counties, the land was worth leas than two dollers per acre in 1360, the average in Perry county being $1.01. In thirteen of the eighteen counties the value is under $3 per acre.

The outers smong Abolitionists about the overty, bad farming, ignorance and unthriftiess in slave States so far so it has any fouration in fact, rea's upon observations made white labor portions of those States, where he effects of sinvery are not erjoyed. But in white isdor portions of those States, where the effects of sivery are not erjyped. But the chief foundation of each opinions is found in facclini exaggeratione, malicions misrepresentation, and sometimes, too, in the common propersity to grumble and find fault, which circums of the border States sometimes exercise at the expense of their own communities.

n the sisve-labor counties, in a population of 2,300 whites, there are 3,247 over twenty years of age who cannot read and write, or a litle more than one in twenty. In the wife-labor counties, it as population of (19) 368 the number who cannot read and writeis 14,001, or more than one in eight. In the slave-labor connectes to total income of education was $114,505, which is an expenditure by each family of $10.04. In the white labor counties the same income was but $40,432, or $2.00 to each family. The slave-labor counties, therefore, are five times as liberal in their expenditures for education. They have in addition to their public schools, which are well maintained, 3,553 private pupils, while in the white-labor connuties, with the exception of Kentor, Campbell and Owsley, there are no pupils at all at private schools. The annual income of the private schools in the claveholying counties is $57.258, while in the white-labor counties is $57.258, while in the white-labor counties is $57.258, while in the white-labor counties layer as girlt and philanthropy in educational matters which would anstain their instelligence without legislative sid, while in the white-labor counties legislative aid is indispensable, and the people are not disposed to do much beyond the limits of legislative as a sistance. They have 44,405 whites between the ages of five and twenty years, and the total educations expeaditure is but $40,432-less than one dollar for each of those who need it—while in the slave-labor counties there are 24,003 of that are, and the expenditure npou private schools in Shelby and Scott counties alone is six thousand dollars more than all the educational expenditures in the whole eighteen free-labor counties together.

Yet Abolitionists will continue to recount s 14,061, or more than one in eight. in the elave labor counties the total income of edu-cation was $114,505, which is an expenditure than all the educational expenditures in the whole tighteen free-labor conuties together ings, they hear the endices repetition of false-hoods which few ever contradict, as but few hove any personal interest in vincleating the character of the absent, and very few have any accurats knowledge of the facts. Many of fair and candid minds have been deluded into the opinion of the interiority of slaveholders in pecuniary and social progress, simply because star-holders have not been sufficiently interested in the question to emppy them with adequate information to correct such errors. When facts such as those just mentioned are bronght forward, there is always some cunning reply derived from shallow apphistry or from additional misrepresentation. The answer an Abolitionist would make to these educational statistics, would be to admit the inferiority of white labor counties in slave States, and assert that it was owing to slavery, which created a class of poor uneducated whites. That is to say that negro slavery, being hostile to education, consest it of lourish wherever said negro slavery is present in the county, and but shows its deadly effects a hundred miles off in a free-labor county where slavery scarcely exists. In a white labor county, for example, contignous to the white-labor State of Ohio and remote from the flourishing slave-labor counties surrounded by slavery. By the same rule the deadly effects before the progress of the white-labor state of the progress of the white-labor state of the deadly effects and the surrounded of the slavery. By the same rule the deadly effects of the progress of the white-labor county is a surrounded to the same rule the deadly effects and the surrounded of the slavery. By the same rule the deadly effects and the surrounded by slavery. By the same rule the deadly effects and the surrounded of the slavery.

Logan Todd .

Slave-labor counties, then, are as far shead Slave-labor counties, then, are as far shead in manufacturing capital and production as they are in agriculture. They are production as they are in agriculture. They are production as they are in agriculture. They are production as in everything. But there is one thing in which no one would expect them to excel. The manufactures carried on in families—the jears, it asys, and other manufactures in families by which poor but industries in families—the would not expect these primitive operations to be much stlended to an large and profitable farms. The centure, however, says that of manufactures in families, the while labor contains produce $223,018, or $10.50 to each white family. How thoroughly does this reture the vulger slander thoroughly does this reture the vulger slander. horoughly does this retute the vulger slander s to the indolent labits of slaveholding famas to the indolent rabits of slaveholding families. If we look for indolence, we should seek it not smoog the prosperous citizens of slaveholding communities, but among the poorer communities, but among the poorer communities, where, from constitutional indolence and the lack of enterprise and ambition, they vegetate in ratic poverty. We should seek for indolence in the white-labor counties where 112 000 people.

Let us now look at the intellectual and noral condition of the white labor and slaveabor countles. It has been so often repeated by all cleases of antislavery writers that lavery is unfriendly to education, it is no wonder that it is extensively believed, or that labor the shallow politicians like Mr. laward sprak of regro slavery as destructive or clucation and virtue among the whites. The first selient fact to be observed is that in the slave-labor countles, in a population of TELEGRAPHIC.

whole eighteen free-labor conuties together. Yet Abolitionists will continue to repeat this slander, that negro slavery prevents white education. A large number of them will not read a book or notice a fact which refutes these stories, and a still larger number repeat without any misgivings the abourd stories and groundless assertions of their leaders. These liconsiderate duces, however, are more excussible when we reflect that they are surrounded by falsehood from their infancy. In their churches and schools, in their newspapers, in social intercourse and in their political meetings, they hear the endiess repetition of falsehoods which few ever contradict, as but few have any personal interest in vinclesting, the the flourishing slave-labor countles surround ed by slavery. By the same rule the deadly et a of slavery might be traced north of the Ohio river, and any deficiency of education there micht be charged upon the deadly influ ences of Kentucky siavery. Thus, for examthere mish the charged npou the deadly it fluences of Kentucky sisvery. Thus, for example, we observe that in the white-labor connity of Fairfield, Ohio, as in the white-labor connities of Kentucky, there is no lucome for colleges, academies and private achools, and that the total clucational income is but $1a,167 for a population between five and twenty years of 11,683, which is $1.21 for each. We refer to this fact to show that the exclusion of slave labor has the same effect everywhere; that it diminishes the productive resonces of the community, and thereby disconrages education and increases the amount of poverty, anfirring and degradation among the white population.

It is not necessary at present to review the

the white population.

It is not necessary at present to review the whole social and educational condition of the white labor States generally. We merely assert that in the broad comparison between the two systems of society, that of white labor exclusively, and that of white labor aided by negro slave labor, the former is less successful, allke in the Southern the labor aided by negro sairs abor, incomer is less successful, allow in the Southern and in the Morthern States, and the latter, the system of aiding the white laborer by blacks under his control, is the source of extraordinary prosperity, greater in proportion as the number of slaves is increased and they are more thoroughly drilled and educated by metalligent masters. This is the general truth pervading our national atatistics, whether we compare counties with counties or States with noiding consides the number who cannot read and write is as one to inheteer; in the medium siaveholding counties it is as one to eighteer; and in the minimum class it is as one to eighteer; and in the minimum class it is as one to eight. The number of the irmoramms class does not fully express the difference; for, in the rich slaveholding counties the large number of colleges and private schools bestow an education of much higher character.

At the same time, the social condition is also improved, as shown by the statistics of education and religion. In the maximum slaws holding counties the number who cannot read and write is as one to industry the different statements.

Here we have a clear demonstration of the wooderful effects produced by the addition of slave labor in promoting the prosperity of a community. There is but little secumnistion of capital in our country. During the long ages of history secumnistions might have been made which would have made every child that is born heir to a large estate. But war, profiliacy and estentations in any have so devastated the earth and destroyed the accumulations of time, that each generation is compelled simost to begin anew and carry on that struggle with went and anfering out of what harbarour nations are reand carry on that struggle with went and enf-fering out of what harbarous nations never emerge. Toll, anxiety, care, disease and distress are the lot of millions, and nuder the circumstances the daily wants consums the product of daily labor, and millions live from hand to mouth, having no accumulation to redeem their posterity from the same numap slavery. A few, by great diligence and econ slavery. A few, by great diligence and economy, accumilate, very slowly, nutil they have acquired some capital with which to operate. When slaveholding is general in the community every family has a capital on which to commence—a capital of labor, and every diligent and pradent member of society grows rich. Men who, in the Northern States, toil twelve honra in every twesty-four and scarce ly reslize that they are any better off at the end of the year than at the beginning—poor farmers in New England who, as Horace Mann described it (in conversation when we last saw him), tulnk themselves fortunate if they farmers in New England who, as Horace Mann described it (in conversation when we last saw him), think themselves fortunate if they can make both ends meet and pay off their little debts as the end of the year—such men 20 South, and in a few years, with much less toil, becoms wealthy, cheerin, heapitable citzens without one furrow of care upon their faces and with the ready smile which applogs from cheerful prosperity and contagions good numor. Such are the "Southern stratecrate," into which many thousands of the sous of the North have been transformed by leaving their care-worn associates and emigraticz to a country where slavery diffuses prosperity, which is more keenly exjoyed by the aid of a sunny sky and balmy atmosphere.

Lientenant Governor Jacob, of Kentucky, who returned with Mr. Blair, reports a strong peace feeling among the citizens of Richmond, and even among the officers of high grades. He predicts there will be a cessation of hostilities within two months, and a proposal for peace from the rebel Government. This is in contradiction of the indications shown in the fact reported by an efficer from North Carolina, who says the rebels already have three regiments of freed slaves in the field.

The Times Washington special says it is reported at the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac that General Lee has sent his family out of Richmond, and that nothing but peace is talked of in that city.

Woon's THEATER.-Mr. Proctor's masterly imisonation of Virginias served to draw a large and critical andience at this favorite resort last night. Mr. P. is one of those old legitimate standby's of the drama that does one good to look upon in these degenerate days of hige posters, trick refreshing to see him enact his favorito roles. Tonight Miss Medina's drama of Nick of the Woods will be the feature. In this piece Mr. P. Is universally acknowledged as the only representative. As this will be the last opportunity offered to witness the same, we anticipate another full honse

LOUISVILLE THEATER.-The thrilling drama of Bel Demonio" has been withdrawn to give place for other interesting dramas, in which M'lle Vestvall appears to great advantage. To-night she will appear as Captain Henri de Lagadaire, in the ro mantle drama of "The Fool and his Master." This rama is replete with interesting incidents, and we have no doubt that the house will be crowded.

THE DRAFT.-There will be a meeting of the citizens of the Ninth and Tenth wards at the Rescue Enginehouse on Wednesday even-ing, the 16 h instant, at 7 o'clock, to devise means to fill the quota of the city in the forthcoming draft.

Louisa Finley, an old offender against the peace and digulty of the Commonwealth of Castle Thomas, having been arrested by officer Jerry Antie upon the charge of grand arceny.

At the meeting of the Council, which akes place to-morrow (Thursday) evening, the question of making an appropriation to relieve the city of the draft will be brought before them. The sale of furniture and carpets and usehold goods takes place at the residence of Captain Frishee, on Fifth street, between Walnut and Chestuut, this morning at 10 o'clock.

DESERTERS.-Oue deserter arrived from Cincinnati yesterday, and seven from Lexingtor, Kentucky.

We received Savannah, Georgia, exchanges of the 3d inst. by mail yesterday.

RIGH SCHOOLS Second Female Assistan INTERMEDIATE SCHOOLS. ...$120 and DISTRICT SCHOOLS.

In the High Schools we also have a teacher of German (msla) at a salary of $900 per annum; also a male teacher of French at the aame salary, and a male teacher of mulsc (one day per week) at $400 per annum. in the Intermediate Schools we have one emale tescher at $400 per annum.

It is to be observed that, although the different rates above mentioned are the regular rates as preacribed by Standing Rules on Sal-arlee, there have been added, as a temporary increase, the following, to-wit:

To salaries of 400, $420 and $450...2427 per ct.

In our District Schools we have in addition to those shove described German male teachers at $552, $800 and $1,000 per annum. In the District and Intermediate Schools we have four teachers of music—one at $900 (the same one also receives $400 for services in the High Schools); one at $1,000, and two at $1,200 each. We have also one male teacher of gymnastics at $1,200, and one female teacher at $600. We also have two female teachers of drawing at $750 per annum each.

The above I believe is a complete exhibit of our list of salaries.

Very respectfully, but in great heate,

L HARDING, Supt. Public Schools of Cincinnati.

A SCOUT AND ROUT .- We learn that on Friday a party of twelve soldiers belonging to the Kentucky State Gnards started out on a scout into Henderson county, from Hender son. They had not gone far before they came upon a detachment of Walker Taylor's men. and at once commenced operating in their midst. The result was that two brothers named Piper were killed, and one rebel and and three horses, fully soulpped, captured, and the balance of the party scattered in all directlons through the woods. Not one of the Federals was hart.

Accidents are becoming of daily occurence on the Nashville and Chuttanooga railroad. On last Friday there were three on that road, but fortunately no persons were burt Go slow.

Quite a number of regro soldiers at Henderson have been down with the meszles. Seven or eight have never been able to get up with them.

Two men who descrited the rebel army in front of Richmond arrived here yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. The following was received at the Navy Descriment from Admiral Porter: FLAG SHIP MALVERN, OFF FT. FISHER, N. C., January 14.

January 13.

I have the bonor to inform you that operations have a resumed sgainst the fort at the entrance of Cape Fear river. Since the first attack on that place, and the subsequent withdrawai of troops, I have been employed in filling ships with sammulation a d coal. The difficulties we have encountered no can conceiva. All our work had to be done with larger vessels, anchored on the coast, exposed, you might say, at say to the violent gales that be where almost increasantly. One of these gaies the enemy depended upon to break up our preparations. We well see that we have gone through the worst of it. We have held on through gales beavy enough to drive everything to eau, and have sustained no damage whatever.

After the troops arrived the weather set in whatever.

After the troops arrived the weather set in bid and the gale was very heavy. As soon as it was ever I got under way on the 12 hiest, and forming the vessels in three lines, with the transports in company, and steamed to Fort Fisher on the moraing of the 15th. The fleet took its station in three lines close to the beach, and the boats were sent at once to take off troops. These were landed with about tweve day's provisions at about 2 o'clock in the atternoon. This time I pressed a temporary plan in attacking the works. I sent in new forces, Commander Radford leading. Tha monitors Canomicas, Monadock and Mahabee, were sent in, and at 7 o'clock in the afternoon the fort opened on them as they approached, but they quickly took up their old position within 15 yards of Fort Fisher, and when ready, opened their hatterys in fishis way I tempted an strack on the moni-Leaves This Doy. 18th inst., at 5 P. M., from city wharf

Quite a spirited engagement went on between the Forts and the Ironsides and Monitors. It was soon apparent that the iron vessels had the best of it. Traverses began to disappear, and the southern angle of Fort Fisher commoncod to look very dilaridated. The guns were elleneed one after another, and only one heavy gun on the southern angis her by up its fire. The first of this gun was not at all sceners, and indicted no damage on the ironsides. They were hit seversi times by way of telling, and the enemy seen that we had some shell left shoard woo 'an ships, and did not intend to take any unfair advantage of him by noing iron vessels alone.

I ordered into number one in plan, led by Copitain Alden, of Brooklyn, and line number two, led by C'm' Thatcher, of Colordo, to go and attack the batteries. This was done in the handsomest manner. Not a mistake was made except sliving too rapidly and making too much smoke.

The heavy fire of the large vesse's chut the enemy's curs at once, and after firing until after dark, the wooden vesse's dropped out to their archorage.

The Ironsides and Monitors maintained their needs on the neight, firing a chell now and then. They are now Iving within 1,000 yards of the iort, and the Monitors are within 700 yards, the fort does not fire a gun at them, thinking, no doubt, it is a waste of powder.

The firing from the first will commander of each vessels will detail as many of the men as he can spare from the guns as a landing party, that we may have a share in the sasault when it takes place. BALTIMORE, Jan. 17. Baltimore, Jan. 17.
The correspondent of the Baltimore American gives the following detailed account of the capture of Fort Fisher, Friday, January 13th: At 5 belie—4 o'ciock—this moralng, we were aroused by a run from the fisg ship and the burning of the preparatory signal of red and green, as an indication that it is time to be up and stirring and preparing breakfast and getting through with the routine of the morning duties, so as to be in readiness at dawn to commence the aerions work of the day. At five o'clock the second signs! was given by the flag ship, and we get under way, when the work of weighing aachor commenced, and at half past five o'clock the signals of the division commanders to move forward were given and responded to, causing a brilliant pyrotechie display.

The gurboat Tacony was sent shead last night to anchor off the flag pond battery, and day not having ye! dawmed, her lights can be seen as steering point for the fleet. On shore about three miles abead of .us, ara three fights, the Wabash, Minnesce's and Colorado, moved off first; de hy Admiral Porter's flag ship. They were followed by the new Ironsides and monitor fleet. Signals from the army transports added to the scena of display.

At the first dawn of day the whole armada was in motion, the wind having changed to due west during fibe night, and coming of the shore, tends to render the landing of troops comparatively ease.

During this time the fort possibly threw $00 shells, but the difficulty they had in maning ther guns amid the explosions of our shells and cleuds of sand that constantly enveloped the works from our well directed shot sertonsly marred their gunnery, as most of their shells atruck hesond or short of the mark. All of our vessels, however, received bonorable scars in the fight. The damage to the fort by outward appearance was most distinct. About 4 is the afternoon a dense and continued smok from inside of the fort indicated thatsome of the rehel but's had been fired. At 4 o, clock Admiral Porter signalled to the vessels in line-of-battle No. 1 to take the positions marked for them on the chart and join in the nombardment; following rapidly was the order to line-of-battle No. 2 to take position and join in the hombardment, it immeditately moved forward, presenting an array of the largest vessels in the service, and a magnificent eight of old wooden waits with their ponderons armaments.

The number of shots fired while the grea ombardment lasted—one hour and a hall losing at 6:10 r m —could not have been les closing at 6:10 P. M.—could not have been less than four per second. I have no doubt that up to the withdrawai of the Wooden Walls this evening, not less than 25,000 shells were fired into Fort Fisher.

After the general bombardment opened but one shot was fired by the fort in return, consequently none of the wooden vessels were lipined.

An order has been received from Parlet—It being impossible to bring our division into the fight, tha room being too contracted—to preceed in abore to ever the encampments of troops from any assault by Brarg from Wilmington. The troops, as I learn from officers who assisted in landing, are in high spirits and anxious to be led forward to assault the Fort. They wish to wipe cut the stain cost on them by the withdrawai of Butler, and prove to the country that they did not believe the Fort couldn't be taken.

The sunnouncement was received here to-day that Gea Butler had been removed from the command of the James and directed to report at Lowell, Mass., caused great rejoicing throughout the first.

Some good shooting was mide by the rebels, and all tha Ironsides have numerous indentions on their armar and perforations in their smoke stacks.

falling fast, having recoded fully four feet during the last twenty-four hours. -Our latest advices from the Cumberland are hat that stream is still falling slowly, with afteen feet water on Harpeth Shoals. ARRIVAL OF COAL -During yesterday the follow ing tow-boats arrived from Pittshurg bringing large tows of coal. The coal ta divided as follows: FOR LOUISVILLE.

FOR CAIRO. -The great Missouri, arrived from New Orieans yesterday, and went to Cincinnati to load. From Mr. Phillips, one of her pilots, we are indebted for the following items: At the time the hoat passed Brandenburg that place was in possession of the rebels, but they did not fire on any of the passing steamers. On last Tuesday the John Raine ran into the Dickey, at Diamond Point, knocking down her chimneys and tearing away the greater portion of her larboard ride, including tha wheel-house. By the accident three persons were killed and twentyone wounded, but we were unable to learn any their names. The Dickey was so badly damaged by the accident that she had to be towed to Vicks burg by the Missouri. On the day the Missouri left New Orleans, a small steamer was run luto by ship and three soldlers knocked overboard and drowned.

-Tha Lady Pike, from Cincinnati, will be at the city wharf this morning, on her way to Nashville, and leave in the evening. She has good accommodations for passengers, and passengers and ship pers can rely upon har going through without de gorge wasn't very strong at last accounts. It was steadily breaking up. There is four and a half feet water in the Mississippt river between St. Louis and Cape Girardean. -The Missouri Democrat says that the upper rivers all continue closed with ice, and are supposed to be low at present. It is very probable that the upper rivers will open with a considerable rice, as a great amount of snow has fallen along them. -We journ that the Julia and Mary E. Foreyth

Nothing new of importance transulrad in our general produce markets to day. The demand for flour routile-nes of a very moderate character, and is confined almost exclusively to the local dealers, and they are only buying sufficient to meet their immediate wants. Small sales are summent to meat their minute waste. So the second of the s viawa of buyers and sellers is the principal cause of the quietness of the market. There was a moderate luquiry for wheat to-day from the local millers, and the market ruled steady at $3.01 to $0.06 for prime samples af red on arrival. The demand for white wheat has fallen off to a considerable axtent, and choice could not at the close have been sold at over $2.12. There has been so material chance in the market for earn since. eeu no material change in the market for corn since our last. The demand continues good and the market ules firm at $1 10 for ear from wagons. In groceries there is not the lasts charge to note, the day. Rio coffee is steady at 63% to 66%c.

Our provision market rules quiet but firmer, without makerial change in prices. City brands of mess pork are offered at $41 30, but they do not meet with much attention at over $41. Prime meas is in good demand and firm at $38. There is a good inquiry forbuilk meats, and the market rules firm, with sales of 16,000 pieces shoulders at 15%c. As yet there is but very little naw bacon ont of smoke, and bolders are very firm at 30c for shoulders, $2c for rib sides, $50 for class sides, $40 for plain cured hams and $50 for class sides, $40 for plain cured hams and $50 for awar-cured. There is some demand for lard, with sales at 25%c to 25c for steam, $2c to 25%c for kettle rendered in tierces and $5% et so 5c in kess.

No new features were exhibited in the money marked to-day. The inquiry continues good, and the market is moderately close. Most of the banks are confining this rattentian to their regular customers, and those to

SECOND P. AND REST OFFICE ADDRESS.

THE OLD COUPLE.

It stands in a snany meadow,
The house so mossy and brown,
With its cumbrars old at ac chimneys,
And the gray roof sloping down. The tree fold the'r green arms around it, The frees century old
And the wind- go chanting through them
And the sunbeams drop their gold.

The cowelips epring in their marshes, And the mere blo in on the hill, And beside the brook in the pasines The herde go feeding at will,

The children have gone and left them, They sli in the eun alone;
And the o'd wife's core are falling.
And she harks to the well known tone

That won her heart in her girlhood, That has coothed her in many a ca And praises her now for the brighthe Her old face used to wear.

She thinks again of her bridal— How, dressed in her robe of white, She stood by her gay young lover, In the morning's rosy light.

Oh, the morning is as rosy as ever.

But the rose from her corek is fled;
And the sunshine still is golden,
But it falls on a slivered head. And the girthood dreams, once vanished,

Come back in her winter time, fil her feeble pulses tremble With the thrul of spring time's prime

And looking forth from the window, She this ke how the trees have grow Since, clad in her br del whiteness, She crossed the old door stone. Though dimmed her eve's bright ezure, And dimmed her hair s young gold,

The love in her girlhood pilguid Has never grown dim or old.

They sa' in peace in the enashine,
Till the day was almost done,
And then, at its close, an ongel
Stole o'er the threshold stone. He fo'ded their hands logether -

Like a bridal pair they traversed

That leads to the beautiful city.
"Whose builder and maker is God." Perhaps in that miracle country
They will give her lost youth back,
And the flowers of a vanished epring-time
With bloom in the spirit track,

One draught from the living waters Shall call back his manbood s prime, And elerual years shall measure The love that outlived time.

But the shapes that they left behind them, The wrinkles and slivery hair, Made holy to us by the kises The angel had printed there,

We will hide away 'neeth the willows, when the day is low in the west, Where the sunbeams cannot find them, Nor the winds disturb their rest.

And we'll suffer no t-l'-tale tomb-stone, With its age and date, no rise O'er the two who are old no tonger, In the Fa her's flouse in the skies.

A "Shoddy" Hearse.

A "Shoudy" Hearse.

The Philadelphia North American, of the 24th ult., says: A vehicle has just been completed in this city that may very safely be asserted to be the most sumptuous affair of the kind in the United States. It is a hearse built to the order of a fashionable sexton in San Francisco. There is nothing nearly so elaborate either in Philadelphia or New York, and the same taste had read of were, and Charles thought at adelphia or New York, and the same taste for splendor that San Francisco manifes's on her bar-rooms and club houses is shown by this undertaker in the order he has given for his imperial hearse. The body, gives for his imperial nearse. The body, which measures seven feet on the inside, is oval in shape, constructed of plate glass, like two mouster mirrors standing upon their sides, about five feet apart.

The wood work in which they are set, and which is the frame of the body, is in chony and gold, every detail of the work being as perfect as in the most delicate or-nament for the ctageres. There are two eets of cashmere curtains, tasseling and fringes, and hammer-cloths to correspond. One set is white, the other blue, and two sets of plumes for the tops are provided to match. There are gilded crosses upon the the vehicle, that are removable at pleasure. The mountings are of gilded brass, and the iron work is of the most cestly and highly finished description, fire

An amusing incident sook place at music store on Main street, the other day, which is worth relating. A fast young woman, who was dressed more like one of our young Mississippi country lasses than a city belle, entered the store in question, and asked the salesman to show her the latest musical publications. The young clerk, mistaking her for a "green un, handed down for her inspection. Ben Boli," "Annie Laurie," "The Last Rose of Summer" and the "Old Arm Chair."

"Are these the latest publications you have?' inquired the female. "Yee, madam, these are the latest publications i-sued," responded the salesman. "Do you know what I wish you would do with them?' replied the woman. "Wrap them up for you, madam?" gnswer-ed the clerk.

"No," said she, "I haven't time to take them now.

"I will do what you wish with them, madam, politely replied the young man, "Well, then," she responded, "you may place this 'Old Arm Chair' aside, seat 'Annie Laurie' iu it, give her The Last Rose of Summer' to use as she pleases, and put old Beu Bolt' to kissing her, and let them kiss away until I return "-[Cairo News, 6th.

DEATH OF A CELEBRATED DWARF .- The death of a celebrity, a dwarf, in Paris, the Thumb, is recorded. In his 16th year he was placed in the establishment of the Duchess of Orleans, the mother of the Citlzen King, and was so small at that age that be passed for an infant, and so dressed, during the stormy period of the First Revozen King, and was so small at that age that he passed for an infant, and so dressed, during the stormy period of the First Revolution, secret dispatches were sent by him, which thus reached without suspicton the imprisoned members of the Royal Family of France. To the day of his death this dwarf, named Richebonrg, received a peusion from the Orleans family of 3,000 francs a year, equivalent to six hundred dollars in gold.

During the last thirty years he had lived luthe same, house, in the Faubourg St. Gernamed Richebonrg, received a peusion from the Orleans family of 3,000 francs a year, equivalent to six hundred dollars in gold. Ouring the last thirty years he had lived luthe same, house, in the Faubourg St. Germain. Unlike Tom Thumb, he had a hormain. Unlike Tom Thumb, he had a hormain to the same in public, and for nearly "Of course, darling." half a lifetime has never crossed the thresh-hold of his own door. Not the least re-markable feature in the career of this crea-ture is the fact that he lived to be 92 years old.

Lowe Dresses.—"We do not see one lady in ten walking the streets," says a venturesome contemporary, "without a constant adjecting with long exirts of her dress. Some pln them up at the regular spaces, withing them a very rampled americance." Some pin them up at the regular spaces, giving them a very rnumpled appearance; others wear 'pages,' or as elsstic cord just below the waist, pulling up the dress just as our grandmothers used to do when they as our grandmothers used to do when they went to sorub the kitchen; others frantically selve the side-breath, holding them in front, having the appearance of a desperate determination of sitting down at the first convenient opportunity. Some walk on, letting their dress hang, are suddenly brought up on the front breadth, stumble, flonader, pull up, and try it again. Now all this could be avoided. Modesty and respect for the opinion of mankind demaind a reformation in this matter. We have only spect for the opinion of mankind demand a reformation in this matter. We have only given a fair weather view of this matter. If ladies would only put a quarter of a yard less in the leugth of their dresses, they would save the amount of goods cost, and as much public observation.'

"Well, what happened then?"
"Why, before he went we swore eternal love and fidelity for each other. "Gabrielle," had read of were, and Charles thought at that time that printed books could not be wrong; so 'Gabrielle,' said he, 'when your father tries to give you another, remember our solemn vows, and have the courage to resist him.' I swore I would be faithful, and so we parted." "Six years ago; he was then fonrteen, and you, as I said before, just twelve years old. Well, you have never met since old. Never, of course, since; I have never

"Nor have you corresponded with him?" "Yes, I have corresponded with him."
"Good Bleaveus! I thought I saw all the etters that came late this house." "Letters! you don't think we correspond by letters?—oh! no, indeed; no, it is brough the medium of the moon that we correspond."

correspond."

"The moon?—oh! I don't mind that kind of correspondence, though I should much like to know how it was mauged?"

"Why, at a certain hour, when there was a moon, we agreed both to look at it, and we should know that at that moment each was thinking of the other." was thinking of the other."
"That shows that you and your precious cousin knew mighty little of geography and astronomy, or you would know that when the moon is shining in Paris the snn is just rising in Martinique. However, you imagined that it was all right, and did it quite well."

"Now you have my secret."
"And is this moonlight cousin of yours the only obstacle between Jules and yourself? "The only one, but an insuperable one."

"Nonsense; so far from being an inst able one, I am going to fix your wedding-day and to tell Jules that you are prepared to receive him as a saitor.

"I am your child; I dare not resist yon; but remember, I warn you, my obedience will cost me my life."
"Your life! Why, Gabrielle, what do ou mean?"

"I feel that this marriage will break my heart and drive me into consumption; and then, when you have lost me, when you shall stand weeping over my grave, you will remember the words of your poor, dear, fond, devoted darling Gabrielle."

Monsieur Melcourt, with all his primness, onld not stand his daughter's tears. French counterpart of the Americau Tom had only given his word, he would have nue and even his life, for Delmar had saved

> Of course, darling." "Well, then, to morrow, Jules will be here. Promise me that you will receive him clvllly."

"I promise anything." "And you will be in a good humor and not go into consumption?"
"Not as long as you let me have my own

"Not as long as you let me have my own way."
The next day Gabrielle, to please her father, made herself as pretty as possible, and received her father's gnest in the most smiable manner. It was a sacrifice she owed her father. She was not sorry, for the course of love, true love, such as ahe felt for her cousin Charles, was always deathed to encounter persecution. She destlued to encounter persecution. She was a victim beyond all doubt; all she could do was, for the sake of her father, to bear her destiny. The evening passed in the most agreeable

The evening passed in the most agreeable manner. It was not violating in any way her faith to the absent lover to admit that Jules Delmar was exceedingly good-looking, that his conversation was interesting, because he possessed such varied information; and that he sang exceedingly well.

Jules continued to visit the house every day for a fortnight. By that time Gabrielle had arrived at the conclusion that she wished she had such a brother, but her father put an end to all her wishes and fanfather put an end to all her wishes and fan-cies by abruptly bringing her back to real-ity, and reminding her that Jules Delmar aspired to no such fraternal distinction, and that now the time had arrived for her to give her decision.

"Will you let me manage this affair my-self? I know it is contrary to all rule, but families?"

"Of course I lmag, 'ned you did."

"Well, Monsieur De, lmar, a marriage between us is impossible."

"Impossible! You should not have waited until now—now that all my happiness is centured in yon, a 'ow that I love you, to tell me this. But whay is our marriage impossible?"

"Because I love another."

"Another?"

"Another "Yes, and have loved him ever since I

"I have never seen hlm since I was twelve years old. It is my cousin, Charles Melcourt, whom I love, and he has been for the last six years in Martinique. "And you have loved him all this time?

That proves you are capable of fidelity Well, go on. "That's all. I would have told yo about the moon, but that papa explained to me that there was a difference in the rising of the moon here and there. We used o correspond by the moon."

Poetical but not astronomical. "Monsieur Delmar, you are making fun "I am treating a disease of the imagina-

"A disease ofthe imagination?" "A disease ofthe imagination?"
"Yes, your love for Charles is a disease of the imagination, and if it is the only obstacle that prevents our marriage, all I can say is, dear Gabrielle, fix the wedding day."
"Then you will be centent to take my hand without my heart?"
"I sell have a supplementation of the same and without my heart?"

"I shall have your heart; you will love me, and I shall be your first love, for you day."

"Never!" exclaimed Gabrielle, "I am resigned to my fate; I will obey my father, but never will I, with my own lips, pronounce my own doom." "But you will be my wife—you will keep the contract made by our two fathers—will you not?'

"I will sacrifice myself to my father's honor," replied Gabrielle, with all the dignoncy, replied dashrelle, with all the dig-nity she could assume.

Gabrielle from that hour assumed the at-titude of a sublime victim. Her father was much concerned, and the threatened con-sumption seemed to frighten him, but Jules, now his ally, laughed away his fears, appearing not to notice the melan-choly, downcast looks and the deep sighs of choly, downcast looks and the deep sighs of his intended.

Gabrielle's grief did not prevent her from paying great attention to her trousseau, and when the victim was led to the alter it was at least most admirably adorned.

M. Melconrt had made it one of the conditions of the marriage that the young couple should reside with him; but Jules, though he was delighted to remain with though ne was designed to remain with the fine spirited old man, resolved that he himself should take charge of his wife's special establishment. A suite of apart-ments was furnished, and though they had been together but three months, it was astonishing how well he had divined Gaastonishing now well he had divined Un-brielie's peculiar tastes and fancies. The carriage he gave her was one of the pret-tiest at the Bois de Bologne; her husband was the most charming companion, the most attentive of lovers; in fact, life was an enattentive of lovers; in fact, life was an en-chantment, cut Gabrielle fought vigoreusly against the conviction, and tried to cou-vince herself that she was not happy. She resumed her moon-gazing and sighed when-ever she was not laughing. Jules Delmar always allowed his wife to include in her carriess and though some.

One day Gabrielle sat alone in her one day Gabrielle sat alone in her boudoir, trying to recall the perfection of her first and only dove, and finding always her huusband's handsome, intelligent, im-pudent face rise np before her, when her valet entered the room and announced that a geutleman wished to see her. What is his name?"

"Madame, he did not give me his name, out he told me to tell you that he came from Martinique. From Martinique? Admit him instant-

In another moment the door opened and a young man who seemed to have outgrown his strength, so tall was he and so light, entered the room. Gabrielle gazed at him for au iustant, and then coldly imformed him that she was Madame Meloourt—what was it he desired?

The gentleman had not inspired her with auy coufidence or sympathy; he had a very small head, with a mass of straight, black asir, feat ere regular without expression, with duil, sleepy eyes, that wandered about with a sort of appealing, helpless, vacaut gaze.

"My dear cousin," sald the gentleman with a low giggle, "don't you know me?

"Charles?" Here Gabrielle fell on her kuees before him and burst into tears while she sobbed out these words:

"Ohl Charles, Charles, forgive me !" Charles looked exceedingly embarrassed, hen mnrmured—
"What for?"

"I have been faithless."
"To whom? To what?" "To onr love !"

"Our love? Why, cousin, I don't remem I am sure I-I am married." "Married? Oh! I am so glad, so I am. At these words Gabrielle rose, dried her tears, and calmly asked her cousin to sit found means of being released from his promise; but he was under the deepest obligations to M. Delmar—owed him his for-"Ohl indeed," exclaimed Gabrielle, blessing her stars that she was married, too, and was spared the humiliation of being forsaken "Yes, and I ran away from Martinique, for my father was offended, and—but my wife is in the carriage below; will you see "And take her to my heart. Oh Charles, I will be a sister to her."

Charles, I will be a sister to her."

Charles rushed Trom the room, while Gabrielle, throwing herself into a chair, heaved a deep sigh, as of relief, exclaiming:

"I am free—I can love him new."

At this moment, Charles returned, his wife on his arm. Gabrielle rushed toward him, but as she got near her course.

him, but as she got near her cousin, she started back; she was the color of a very light lemon, that not even the Email de Paris could make white, and though she was beautiful, it was evident at the first glance that there was the blood of another race in her veius.
"Do you, too, draw back? I thought here was no prejudice in France-"No, no; I welcome your wife, and offer her a sister's love!" exclaimed Gabrielle holding ont her hand to the 'yellow girl, saying to herself, "she will never know how eloome she is."

Gabrielle, who was all powerful, made M Melcourt welcome his nephew, and install his bride with him in an apartment in his mansion, promising to be the medium of reconciliation with his father in Mar-

When on the night of his arrival Jules and Gabrielle were alone, he sat down be-side her, and, putting his arm around her, drew her toward him.

"Gabrielle," said he, "the idoi of your fancy is returned—poor Gabrielle."

"How dare you pity me? Oh, Jules, how could I ever have been such a fool."
